

This architectural floor plan, titled 'Section A', illustrates the layout of a restaurant. The plan is divided into several functional zones:

- Entrance and Reception: Located at the top center, featuring a curved reception desk and a large open area with curved seating.
- Kitchen: Situated in the upper right, containing a large kitchen island with a sink and stove, and a smaller island with a sink.
- Dining Area: The central and largest area, featuring multiple rectangular tables with chairs. A large curved table is positioned near the entrance. A curved bar is located near the kitchen.
- Bar and Lounge: Located in the lower right, featuring a curved bar with stools and a lounge area with a sofa and armchairs.
- Restrooms: Multiple restrooms are distributed throughout the plan, including a large one near the entrance and several smaller ones near the kitchen and bar.
- Storage and Utility: Various storage areas and utility rooms are located throughout the plan, including a large storage area near the entrance and a smaller one near the kitchen.

The plan includes detailed dimensions for all rooms and furniture, as well as a legend for symbols used in the drawing. The overall layout is designed to provide a comfortable and functional dining environment.
